

Buy a Home with the Baby Bonus

Payment of family allowance in a lump sum, to be used as the down payment on a home under the National Housing Act, was suggested by CCF leader Robert Strachan last night.

He told a Victoria CCF Association meeting that he plans to forward the proposal to MPs in Ottawa for action.

The scheme, as put forward by Mr. Strachan, would apply to families renting homes and desiring to buy their own homes, but unable to save enough to make the necessary down payment.

allowance payment $7 a month for each child for 16 years, a family with one child would receive $1,344, enough to supply the $1,000 NHA down payment.

On deciding to build a home, a family with two children would receive $2,688, and with three children, a total of $4,032.

Each larger lump sum of family allowance given would provide a larger down payment and thus less interest to pay back on the housing loan, Mr. Strachan said.

"And instead of paying rent, they would then be using that money to contribute to building up a home of their own," he said.

The proposal would also give assistance to the lumber industry in British Columbia and provide more jobs, he said.

He also suggested that the federal government make the housing loans in the same way credit unions do. Then if the wage-earner of the family died before the loan was paid off, the loan would be paid off by insurance and the widow and children would not have to worry about losing the home.

He described the proposal as another of the "crutches" the CCF is continually giving the "capitalist governments."

Jaycees Plan Centennial Project

Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce is planning to spend "up to $25,000" on a centennial project for the city, president Ira Hill said.

Among possibilities is a heated outdoor swimming pool, with diving boards and dressing rooms. Another is a traffic safety inspection lane.

Toy Gun Desperado Grabs Police Pistol

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police used a tear gas grenade to capture a suspect Thursday, minutes after a hold-up man with a toy pistol robbed a suburban bank of $1,000 and snatched a policeman's gun from its holster as he fled.

Later they charged Richard Hudson, 31-year-old Vancouver accountant, with the robbery.

It was the second bank holdup in Vancouver within 24 hours. Wednesday, a bandit escaped with $2,300 from a downtown bank.

CORNERED

The suspect was cornered in a basement of a home a block from the bank and police subdued him with the tear gas grenade.

Manager A. F. Callis of the Toronto-Dominion Bank branch said the holdup man pushed a piece of paper to teller Klaus Boehme on which was written: "This is a holdup. Keep calm."

Callis said the 22-year-old teller took his time and pushed an alarm button before passing a handful of bills over to the man. Accountant E. R. Fritz approached as the young bandit was telling Boehme: "I've got a gun."

The B.C. government is doing more than anyone else in Canada to create work and ease unemployment this winter, Premier Bennett declared yesterday.

At the same time he said the government was "waiting daily" for some announcement from Ottawa that would increase jobs in the province.

And the best way to create extra jobs would be for the federal government to agree with the B.C. request for a huge joint highway development program in the province, he added.

Under this scheme Ottawa would pay almost 80 per cent of a $523,000,000, five-year construction program.

"Isn't that rather a fantastic amount of money to spend on highways?" a reporter asked.

"It wouldn't be a fantastic bill, but it would be a fantastic development," replied the premier.

"The federal government has spent tens and hundreds of millions of dollars in other parts of Canada. Why not B.C.?"

He said there was lots of work to be done in B.C. "We have got an empire here that needs development."

The accountant said he told the man: "Let's see it."

Mr. Callis said the bandit produced what appeared to be a large black automatic. It later proved to be a toy.

As the bandit ran out of the bank, the accountant called, "Holdup!" Callis grabbed his gun and ran to the street where he found the bandit and a police officer face to face on the sidewalk, the holdup man demanding the officer's gun.

The policeman had just stepped from his patrol car when he was confronted by the holdup man.

THROUGH TRAFFIC

The bandit grabbed the constable's gun from its holster and ran across busy Kingsway, dropping the toy weapon.

The bank manager said he handed his gun to the police officer who jumped back into his car and followed the holdup man, firing one shot.

Witnesses said the pursued man ran into a basement and police led Mrs. Leslie Cummings and her two grandchildren out of their house.

Const. Don Bellamy, 30, said he went to cover the back of the house.

"DEAL"

"I heard the fellow yelling he wanted to make a deal. He was standing in the basement doorway with a gun in his hand pointing at the ground. The door was just open a few inches."

"I told him we didn't make deals and ordered him to throw his gun out. Then he kicked the door closed."

"I kicked the door in. He was standing about 10 feet inside. He had a gun in his hand. He started to walk towards me and was about eight feet away when the gas hit the window."

"As he reached the doorway I grabbed him and spun him around. I knocked the gun out of his hand. Another officer with them in the hitherto empty masculine upper chamber, side."

Tory Savings Eaten Up

Pearkes Fails to Reduce Monster Defence Budget

Future Also Black

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister G. R. Pearkes confirmed Thursday that the government has been unable to reduce the 1957-58 defence budget which accounts for one-third of all federal spending.

He informed the Commons that savings accomplished since the Progressive Conservatives took office last June have been eaten up by pay increases granted the armed forces. He announced no over-all change in the $1,722,000,000 defence budget submitted to Parliament by the former Liberal government last spring.

At the same time, he threw out a hint that defence costs may go up instead of down in future.

Opening a general defence debate, he said:

"... The fact remains that, if we are to continue to play our part in the defence alliance, we must see to it that our forces are equipped with modern weapons. These weapons, on account of their increasing complexity, are becoming more and more costly. I feel that in the world as it is today it would be folly to follow any other course than that we now are pursuing."

RESERVE OVERHAULED

Mr. Pearkes announced a reorganization of the army and RCAF reserves and of the regular army.

He also said Canadian naval scientists, in conjunction with the Royal Navy, will begin in Britain next year studies of nuclear propulsion for warships.

He announced his department will order two new destroyer escorts, "costing some $25,000,000 apiece, to bring the total program to 16 new destroyers."

W. J. Henderson, Liberal defence critic, warned that the government must not become involved in the "brinkmanship" of U.S. State Secretary John Foster Dulles.

He said Mr. Pearkes and External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith should carefully review the Canada-U.S. agreement establishing the joint air defence command.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, said some defence spending could better be directed to research and increasing the number of scientific and technical personnel.

Wandering Boy Returns

Safe and sound on home soil after an unscheduled trip to Tacoma, Wash., 16-year-old David Jones, 3364 Doncaster, is welcomed by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Jones, last night. David was ushered home by Tacoma police, who were alerted by reports that the boy had left his Victoria home Sunday morning. "I was hoping to go to California to get a job," David said.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Coldwell Pleads:

Help Hungry Poor

Cut Costs Of Defence

OTTAWA (BUP)—A plea for Canada to switch defence expenses to help the poor and hungry of the world was made yesterday by CCF leader M. J. Coldwell.

"The future of the world is not going to be decided on the battlefields," he said, "because battlefields make the future of mankind uncertain."

"On the contrary, the devotion of our efforts to the relief of human suffering, the promotion of human health and relief of world-wide hunger, would do more to promote world peace than any other endeavor we could undertake."

He said that if all expenditures for obsolete planes and equipment were eliminated, "we could transfer substantial sums of money for the most effective means of human well-being and international security."

500 Fund Reaches $3,169

'Giving This $5 Helps Me'

"I am a veteran's widow in my 70th year. I live in a tiny two-room cottage and I have enough food and fuel and clothing."

"I try to take care of myself so as not to be a bother to anyone. But around Christmas time, I feel a little lonely and long for my dear husband and the old friends who have long departed this life."

"Feeling able to spare this $5 has given me happiness."

That was only one letter received by The Daily Colonist yesterday as the "500 Christmas Fund" moved ahead to the fund's share of its bingo donors is on Page 21.

A shorter, but equally eventful, note read: "This donation is small from necessity this year, but next year I hope to make it more."

Largest gift yesterday was $50 from Hon. and Mrs. R. W. Mayhew. Meantime, Naval Fire Department still was totalling 1215 Broad. Latest list of donors is on Page 21.

ALLABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

THE teen-aged girls never sit still. Perched on stools at the lunch counter, they swing from side to side, kick their legs and talk quick smart and smart at each other.

They are nervous, pretty, and very much aware of themselves. It almost seems as though they are trying on various postures and facial expressions as they might try on clothes. They will select the ones that feel most comfortable and gain the most attention, for permanent use.

The one with the pony-tail feeds a dime into the machine, and some "rock" music tumbles out.

Two girls catapult themselves into the middle of the floor, link hands in a brief sketch of a dance, then whirl back to their places at the counter.

In quick succession they cross and uncross their feet, dart their eyes in several directions, showing a lot of white; smile, frown and toss their heads.

Farther along the counter, some boys hunch themselves over cokes and coffees in an elaborate show of indifference; but they are covertly watching the girls. Now and then, the boys swing their shoulders and emit sniggers, or bounce on their seats and drum on the counter.

Some kind of female radar tells the girls that they are capturing the interest of their audience. They respond by speeding up the tempo of their movements.

Shoulders Well Back

The girl in the white sweater swings around and pushes her shoulders back, stretching the sweater as tight as it will go.

Small hips wriggle. A white, bobby-soxed leg describes a crazy arc. Self-conscious smiles and puppet-like gestures flash back and forth at a furious rate.

Then the boys get up and leave in a hunched, conspiratorial kind of way. One of the girls whisks a package of cigarettes from her purse, lights up, and spouts a high-pressure jet of smoke from rosebud lips.

Two of the girls fling coats over themselves and mince out the door. The others stay at the counter and settle down to some serious smoking.

A man who has been watching the girls with interest looks around and catches the waitress's eye. She returns his glance with an air of resigned, amused disgust. She regards teenagers as one of the irritations of a waitress's life.

"It's a damned sight better than having nobody come into the place at all," says another man to the proprietor, who grins assent from his stool at the end of the counter.

The girls, catching the vibrations of this interest in their cigarettes, and smile and flap their eyelids a little between puffs, just to keep in practice.

CNR Kitimat Line Soon Runs in Red

VANCOUVER (CP)—The CNR plans to ask the board of transport commissioners for permission to abandon or curtail its rail passenger service between Kitimat and Terrace, B.C.

The 43-mile link with CNR's northern trans-provincial line was completed two years ago at a cost of $10,000,000. It has begun to lose money, the railway says.

During Visit Here

Will Princess Pin Medals?

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black will be asked to attempt to have Princess Margaret present medals here next year to the 50 outstanding citizens of Greater Victoria.

Greater Victoria Centennial Committee, which has bought 50 medals especially struck by the Victoria Numismatic Society, decided last night to make the request.

The Numismatic Society has had a gold medal struck, which it hopes to present to Princess Margaret when she visits here in the July.

The centennial committee suggested that these two events could coincide.

Another recommendation was passed, that a "secret" committee of five would be appointed to submit names of outstanding citizens to be awarded the Centennial Medal.

It was agreed that, if those approached accept, the committee would be comprised of one member each from The Daily Colonist, Victoria Daily Times, Radio Station CJVI and Radio Station CKDA. These four would appoint a fifth member, who would act as chairman.

Names of those on the committee would be kept secret.

Impaired for Third Time Driver Jailed Three Months

A three-month jail sentence for impaired driving was handed down by Magistrate Henry C. Hall in Saanich police court yesterday.

Victor L. Robinson, 3980 Quadra, was found guilty after trial. The sentence followed his admission of two previous convictions for the same offence, in April and in June, 1953.

His driver's licence was suspended.

Court was told that Robinson's car had been in collision with a parked vehicle in the 3700 block of Quadra at about 2:15 p.m. Oct. 30.

After talking with accused, the officers took him to city police station for a sobriety test by Dr. E. L. McNiven. Dr. McNiven testified that accused was impaired.

Two men pleaded guilty in Saanich court to failing to file income tax returns for 1956. Reginald Sinkinson, 1104 D'Arcy, and Ernest C. Day, 663 McKenzie, were fined $25 and $250 costs each.

In the same court, Samuel J. Patterson, 1503 Charlton, was fined $35 for failing to keep records of unemployment insurance figures.

No Intervention, Bennett Agrees

Premier Bennett said yesterday he supported Labor Minister Lyle Wicks 100 per cent in the view that the government should not intervene in the pulp workers' strike unless asked to by both parties.

"We're in a free country and men have the right to work or not to work," he said.

Rent-Hiking Owners May Face Controls

Premier Bennett indicated yesterday the government will give powers to municipalities to deal with landlords raising rents of old-age pensioners. If specifically requested to do so.

He said yesterday he had not heard of landlords raising rents following the $9 a month pension increase which went into effect last month.

A reporter asked him if the government would institute rent controls to prevent such rent increases.

"I think the municipalities should do more and more with us in conjunction with low-cost housing for old-age pensioners," said Premier Bennett.

"What about rent controls?" he was asked.

"Well, I think if Vancouver or any other municipality wanted something like that and petitioned us we might do something," he said. "But we think it should be handled by the municipalities."

Meanwhile cabinet is expected to ratify the agreement with the federal government to share the cost of the increases for about 10,000 B.C. pensioners later today.

These pensioners, in the 65-70 age group, disabled persons, and blind welfare recipients have so far been denied the $9 extra because the agreement has not yet been signed.

Premier Bennett said yesterday he would "imagine" the increase would be made retroactive to cover November cheques.

'No Union-Busting Laws'

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Legislation proposals in detail by Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell Thursday unveiled the AFL-CIO convention. The labor law program President Eisenhower will recommend to Congress, including strong measures to curb labor racketeering. Mitchell disclosed the labor law program includes provisions for full disclosure of union funds and procedures, secret ballot election of union officers and tightened restrictions on both labor and management money payments. The program also calls for stronger legal bans on labor boycotts and a ban on the "hot cargo" clause prevalent in Teamsters Union contracts. Under the latter clauses the union gets the employer to agree to refuse to handle materials supplied by another employer with which the union has some dispute. Mitchell also proposed elimination of the non-Communist affidavit requirement for labor leaders under the Taft-Hartley Act. He said the administration will oppose any efforts in Congress to enact a national right-to-work law or to apply the anti-trust laws to unions.

NHA Back on the Job

FOLLOWING the announcement at the beginning of the week of the impending release of an additional $150,000,000 in housing assistance loans from the federal treasury, the Dominion government's new bill to broaden the scope of the National Housing Act should raise the spirits of the building trade and would-be home owners. If this legislation goes through, as it undoubtedly will, NHA assistance will be brought within the reach of a great many people now excluded by regulations governing down payments and income eligibility.

The result should be a substantial increase in construction and employment in the various building trades, plus more extensive use of lumber and other building supplies at a time when the market is dull. Public Works Minister Green's explanation of the bill introduced in the House of Commons on Wednesday is the best news the industry has been given since winter unemployment in the construction trades began to cause misgivings. On the West Coast where mild climate permits work to proceed with little interruption between fall and spring the easing of NHA restrictions is particularly heartening.

Besides their stimulating influence on employment the proposed amendments do something which has been needed for a long time towards restoring the original purpose of the National Housing Act. This national system of loans was never intended for the assistance of prospective builders whose income and financial status enabled them to borrow elsewhere. The purpose was to promote "cheap" housing for the average citizen with little capital but reasonable prospects of being able to carry long-term mortgages with relatively low monthly payments.

Before very long, however, the removal of price controls and skyrocketing cost of everything connected with home building pushed NHA assistance farther and farther beyond the reach of those needing it most. For several years by far the larger proportion of NHA loans annually have been obtained by persons with incomes well above the national average, which bears out what Mr. Victor Leigh of Victoria, chairman of the construction committee of the Canadian Construction Association, says about the intention of NHA having been lost.

The former Liberal government seemed unable to comprehend the situation that inflation was creating for the "small man" and the building trade, and proceeded to make matters much worse by a tight money policy which brought NHA home construction across Canada almost to a standstill. Not until Mr. Diefenbaker's government took over was anything done to bring NHA regulations into closer relationship to prevailing conditions. If the Conservatives accomplished nothing else in their first half-year in office, this commonsense revision of NHA demonstrates their competence.

Hearty Endorsement

RE-ELECTION of Mayor Percy B. Scurrah by acclamation for his second term as chief magistrate of Victoria followed what had been publicly anticipated after an active and productive first term. The fact that no name was offered in challenge at the mayoralty nomination carries its own comment, and leaves Mayor Scurrah in the city and Reeve Norris in Oak Bay as the only municipal heads accorded this honor here this time. There will be reeveship contests in Esquimalt and Saanich, adding to the liveliness of the December poll in both instances; particularly in the latter where one of the most spirited municipal contests in years appears to be taking shape.

In Victoria City the return of Mayor Scurrah unopposed was no doubt considerably more than the outcome of candidates' papers on nomination day. Go-ahead leadership has been given to the City under the present regime, with a more confident and hopeful outlook for the future than has been the case for some time past. Part of this would have been engendered by swift growth within the community itself, but positive and efficient leadership has pointed up the opportunities and produced an entirely new atmosphere at the City Hall. That is an encouraging augury for the future, pinpointed by the successful replacement of Point Ellice Bridge and a clearing of the slate for action on the next civic undertaking.

Whether the current interest in amalgamation leads one day to forward action or not, there is no doubt that Victoria City must move with the times. In the past two years Mayor Scurrah has proved that he has a sound grasp of the needs, with the determination and drive to carry through with the City's plans. Accession of fresh strength in the City's engineering and legal departments, the city manager system now being applied with advantage, and a stronger liquid position in civic finances have all helped towards the same end. With progressive planning and a go-ahead attitude Victoria can look forward with confidence.

Harming Its Own Cause

ONE had not thought of Japan being in the rocket race, but apparently so. No nation has a monopoly of scientific brains, even if Russian success has panicked some people. A Tokyo dispatch records that in a test this week the Japanese sent a rocket an estimated 60 miles towards the heavens, and that Japan may be able before long to launch its own sputnik. Other nations, not heard from in advance and proceeding quietly with their plans, probably are bent on following suit. In a year or two the sky may need a rocket-traffic policeman.

Meantime the United States, perturbed because of the Soviet sputniks, has had to set back a much-publicized test satellite launching because of technical troubles. Haste is not a good factor for success and obviously there is undue anxiety to rush things in order to restore American prestige. The test is now scheduled for today, but already the Germans have nicknamed the U.S. satellite "sputnik," meaning a latecomer. This is the kind of jeer that all leading nations or individuals may expect, for a champion or a top dog is never too well liked until he is deposed.

Americans will make a mistake if they allow their self-esteem to impede their natural skills and ability by over-anxiety to match the Soviet satellites. Next month is as good as today or tomorrow, better in fact if this will ensure accomplishment. In the present instance, also, announcement before the fact does its course harm, for it leaves the U.S. open to further discomfiture. It would be greater wisdom not to disclose plans for a satellite launching, especially when couched in lengthy detail, until the satellite was in the air and circling in its assigned orbit.

Amalgamation Studied

Unified Services Beneficial

IN assessing the need for some form of metropolitan government throughout an urban area, a standard approach is to examine the whole range of municipal services from two inter-related points of view. An attempt is made to determine which services, under divided jurisdiction, are inadequately provided throughout the whole or particular parts of the area. A comprehensive analysis will also include a listing of those services where the area coverage is reasonably adequate at the moment but where tangible and specific benefits can be expected to accrue as a result of unified policy control and administrative management.

In metropolitan areas studies where such a two-fold approach has been adopted, one of the most notable features is the degree of overall uniformity in the conclusions which have emerged. A conscientious and objective appraisal almost invariably reveals that, in terms of opportunities for constructive service developments, equity of the financial burden and real value for the tax dollar, the local citizens may expect to benefit from the transfer of most of the major municipal services to a metropolitan-wide administration. Conclusions may well vary, depending on local circumstances, concerning the advantages which may be anticipated from the transfer of such services or powers as traffic control, garbage disposal, residential roads, municipal licensing or building regulations.

On the other hand, for municipal responsibilities like schools, major traffic arteries, police and fire services, planning, justice, and water supply and sewage disposal, it is usually found that area-wide management is the only effective way to ensure that progress will be made in extending services, that standards will be reasonably uniform and that costs will be distributed on a fair and equitable basis.

While a list might seem to indicate that the ideal area for almost every metropolitan service will be different, such a utopian approach to the question of boundary determination is, in most instances, neither feasible nor necessary. The need is rather to balance the administrative requirements for those services where metropolitan-wide control is essential or desirable and then to establish a boundary which encompasses the most practical and effective area for the most services.

Such a compromise solution may, of course, involve the setting up of a somewhat wider area of jurisdiction for a particular service or function such as planning. But a departure of this sort is a small price to pay for a metropolitan boundary which is appropriately tailored for the most efficient and equitable provision of services to the area's residents.

"... of shoes—and ships—and sailing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

JOHN Buchan died in 1940 but if you go into a local bookstore you will find that his books, in standard, pocket-size or paper format, go selling on. For he was a supreme teller of tales.

Yet the wonder is not that he should rank next to Scott as a writer, but that he should have written 56 books in the midst of a busy, practical life.

As a young man Hugh Walpole once said to Buchan that he intended retiring to write, and Buchan told him that he should have some other vocation as well. He himself was in turn barrister, journalist, soldier, book publisher, member of parliament and proconsul through his adult years.

His books, although the essence of the man, were in the nature of by-products.

This was because some of them at least were effortless; they formed themselves upskied in his mind. Talking of his adventure stories he said that he never consciously invented with a pen in his hand; he waited until the story told itself and then wrote it down.

That much, then, was a natural gift, but the suppleness of his style had been worked at since he was a youth at university. Genius accounts for many things but it does not flourish on a 40-hour week.

It was his varied life, also, that brought grist to his mill, for he found his characters among his friends and acquaintances, switching their traits and adding his own scintillating invention.

Sir Edmund Ironside, for example, who hoodwinked the Germans by serving in disguise with their field staff in South-West Africa in the first war, was the prototype of Richard Hannay in "Greenmantle," the ostensible Dutch-speaking Boer who served with the Germans in Europe.

"Greenmantle" sold over a million copies, and with his other adventure yarns brought Buchan much financial return. "Money gives Daddy the creeps," said one of his sons to his mother, Lady Tweedsmuir, relates. So it did, in the sense that money as a subject was never discussed by him.

Buchan said himself that he felt a little ashamed of profiting from tales that gave him amusement to write.

These are the Hannay yarns, about the men of the Runagates Club of whom it was said that "they had poetry in them and the heroic and a great unworldliness." They were like their creator, men freed of the earthly worries of livelihood, and perhaps they could afford to be galliard of spirit.

But they are an enchanting company, and an evening with Hannay or Clanroyden, with Lamancha or Archie Roylance or Blenkirton, with Palliser-Yeates or Dickson McCunn—and all or some of them appear in each of the Hannay books—is to revel in the delights of a masterful storyteller.

Probably this is the Buchan most readers know best, but he had other sides. He took pains, he said, with his historical romance series and thought them the best of his imaginative writings.

"Witchwood," "The Free Fishers," "Midwinter" and "The Blanket of the Dark" are fine examples of this bent of his pen.

In addition he was historian, poet, biographer. His four full-scale biographies, "Montrose," "Cromwell," "Augustus" and "Sir Walter Scott" are now standard works and the latter has been adjudged the best single-volume biography in the language.

The real quality of the man, perhaps, may be deduced from "Sick Heart River," the novel of the Arctic he wrote while Governor-General of Canada. It is a testament, containing his philosophy on pain, healing and death.

Buchan spent much of his life plagued by duodenal trouble. "I am like a Red Indian," he said to his wife at Rideau Hall the year before he died. "I am in constant pain and don't show it."

Even so early as the writing of "Greenmantle" he was afflicted, and a friend wrote of visiting him in an army hut in France and finding him sitting up in bed, the blankets littered with foolscap pages of this famous adventure story.

About this book his wife tells an intimate story. One evening in Ottawa she went into his room and found him reading. He was so absorbed she asked him what the book was, and he said: "As a matter of fact it's 'Greenmantle'—I hadn't read it for years."

He wore a green mantle himself all his valuable life; of knightly evergreen.

Story With a Moral...

A Delegation in Search of Goods

By RICHARD L. Thomas, Daily Colonist London correspondent

BRITAIN is hearing a lot about Canada just now. The trade delegation arrived with a blast of trumpets, a delirious blast of publicity and unimpeachable good manners.

Quite a number of us expected a preliminary blast about the indifference of British manufacturers to the Canadian market. It would have been accepted without resentment, rather like the wayward son accepting a blast from father as he was about to sign a cheque to get the lad out of a spot of bother. But whatever was in the minds of the Canadians, they said nothing.

They are content to see and keep opinions to themselves—for the present anyway.

Not so certain British industrialists.

Mr. George Ridley of the Laing organization has rammed home a few home truths. His men went to Canada with British cars. They have no complaints about the cars, but they were unable to get proper service or spare parts. They are having to switch to American vehicles.

Equipment ordered in Britain with delivery promised within six weeks had not arrived after three months.

And referring to the development of Annacis Island, he mentions that whilst it has been successful beyond initial hopes at this stage, that is with no thanks to British manufacturers. Of 36 factories established or in process of establishment there, only four are British. The rest are American.

A few other home truths garnered in conversation with Canadians and Britons:

A manufacturer who was asked to can goods for the Canadian market with the promise of a substantial order. No thanks. His product was always sold in glass. If Canada did not want it in glass it could go without.

Another manufacturer who said that he was prepared to sell to Canada if there was an immediate profit but he was not prepared to lay out anything for establishment expenses.

It has been pointed out that any company expecting to build up a worthwhile business in Canada will have to be prepared to lose money for a little while—and that they must be able to guarantee good service.

The Bank of England is also a ghost haunting the export market. The established manufacturer will probably get anything he wants in the way of dollar resources, but the merchant adventurer prepared to risk his luck on creating a new market for a new product will get plenty of headaches in trying to get his dollar authorization.

No doubt the controllers of the Bank of England have been trained in a school which tells them not to take risks—but British industry was not built that way. The up-and-coming company governed by people with ideas is likely to bring good returns, but many small firms have given up in disgust trying to keep pace with the forms and demands of the bank.

Even some of the big companies with vast dollar earnings to their credit tell haunting stories of bureaucracy, of examination of expense accounts, and inferential criticism that any executive who spends more than $2.50 on a meal is not doing his best for the country.

A telling point about Britain's currency restrictions comes from an American complaining bitterly about the regulation which prohibits the importation of more than £10 in British currency notes. The regulation is designed to prevent the re-importation of currency illegally exported.

As the American pointed out, a nation which threatens to confiscate its own currency where it is introduced to its own country can hardly wonder if other nations are a bit nervous about it. It is shocking advertisement for the stability of the pound, and another argument in favor of a bold policy of allowing the pound to find its own level.

It is also a bad advertisement when steamship owners announce that sterling will not be accepted for ship-board expenses—due to difficulties in exchanging sterling.

The day when pounds are welcomed back in Britain in unlimited quantities will be the day when the pound will again command universal respect.

Blackmail Tactics

Charity or Tax?

(From Maclean's Magazine)

THE unfortunate remarks of Mr. George Black, the president of the United Community Fund of Greater Toronto, warning businessmen who did not give liberally to the United Appeal that they would become "moral outcasts," suggest that something dismaying is happening to the concept of charity in Canada.

In attempting to make our voluntary giving as easy and simple and painless as possible, we have turned it into a tax. For that is what the United Appeal now is—a privately run tax, but a tax nonetheless. As Mr. Black has truly, if tactlessly said, the organization is formidable, the members influential, and any businessman should think long and hard before going against their declared wishes.

Charity, in the Biblical sense (if we properly understand the parable of the widow's mite), was supposed to be voluntary; equally important, it was supposed to hurt. If it was simple, painless and compulsory it wasn't charity. We've always had the feeling that the old-fashioned tag days, special weeks, and periodical appeals—annoying as they might be—had the virtue of reminding us constantly that we had a duty to our neighbor. Mr. Black's kind of charity, we suspect, could be handled with more efficiency and less blackmail by the government.

Save Our Christmas

(From The Sault Ste. Marie Star)

DECEMBER 25 provides us with a storehouse of happy memories. It reminds us of our first toys and our first loves. There may have been sad Christmases, but in the main, they were happy, exciting and full of love and the fellowship of man.

Hands off Christmas, Remembrance Day and the other days we celebrate in conjunction with the story of our people. Streamlining the year to benefit industry and holiday-makers will make us a nation devoid of history, tradition and sentiment.

Hang up your stockings on the night of December 24. Santa Claus takes no heed of the Scrooges and the rationalists; on Christmas Eve he rides, whether they like it or not.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

A psychologist says we should tune our minds by making easy decisions early in the day and gradually working up to the tough ones. But how can this be done when at the start of the day you are faced with the dreadful decision—fried or scrambled?

When schools have open houses do they ever make an effort to get the childless people in the neighborhood to drop in for a visit? They pay taxes, too, and might be even more interested than parents in finding out what goes on there.

Department of Wonderful Logic: A youth in Missouri explained that he suggested the gas station attendant because he had a tire iron in his hand and he couldn't think of anything else to do with it.

Two old-timers were discussing a mutual friend. Said one, musingly, "Poor old Herb seems to be living in the past these days."

"Why not?" said the other, with a resigned sigh. "It's a lot cheaper."

"I've a good mind to go home to mother," stormed an irate wife, after a row with her other half.

"You don't mean that," replied the husband with a sigh. "You're only saying it to tantalize me."

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

ACCORDING to the radio, we who get up between 6 and 7 o'clock in the morning are an entirely different breed of cat from those who get up between 7 and 8. And those of us who rise at 8 are, if the disc jockeys are any judge, so different from the 6 to 7 o'clockers that you would suppose we lived in a different world.

All you hear between 6 and 7 are western and hillybilly tunes. It is a sort of music you will hear at no other hour of the day or night, unless you were to catch a little whiff of it as incidental music in a western, during a bar-room scene. It consists of hillybilly bands spanking away, with what you might call do-it-yourself slangers howling and yowling through their noses no better than you or I could do it while shaving. There is a homeliness about pre-7 o'clock music that suggests the disc jockeys figure anybody save themselves who gets up that early must be a pretty homely and unpretentious sort of yokel.

At 8 the skimpy news releases that have been lying around the studios since last night are beginning to be filled out with fresh detail. Sportscasters are up and awake, rapidly intoning their tumbling statistics. The odd bit of mood music, pseudo classical, begins to intrude amidst the rock and roll. Aha, the gentry are getting out of bed!

By 8:30 the world is so up and doing that disc jockeys can no longer distinguish their audience, and it is a free for all, with jazz, classical or military bands wherever you twitch the dial.

Then comes 9 o'clock. By this time the early morning jockeys have been relieved, and into the studios come the intellectuals: the Ivy League of radio. On some it is symphony. And on others, scholarly presentations of dialogue between noble minds of the past.

The later you rise, the loftier your tastes.

Japanese Salmon

It appears to me that some comment is desirable on the item in the Colonist recently to the effect that Japanese salmon is being sold under the Cloverleaf label of British Columbia Packers of Vancouver, with the words "Produce of Japan" in almost imperceptible print.

practice, but as today's Colonist advises that the minister of fisheries states the sale of Japanese salmon will continue until 1958, apparently he condones it.

How Much Action?

After reading the pronouncements of the existing Saanich councillors in this morning's paper (Dec. 3) I am forcibly reminded of a certain columnist's "Society for the Prevention of Everything." Most of the "old guard" have finally yielded to pressure from the people they are supposed to represent and agreed to support an inquiry into the pros and cons of amalgamation, at the same time loudly proclaiming that "amalgamation won't work."

In such a situation, one wonders how much action we would get out of them if the facts disclosed that the municipalities should join forces. As Ogden Nash aptly phrases it: I have no desire to get ugly.

But I cannot help mentioning that the door of a bigoted mind opens outward so that the only result of the pressure of facts upon it is to close it more snugly.

Potential Killers

Mr. Green's suggestion of tests for hunting-licence applicants is excellent. At the same time, he would probably find that many of the villains of hunting accidents could pass his tests. They are otherwise "normal" people until they get into the bush with rifles and shotguns—in their hands. We mustn't forget the characters who spray houses with little lead pellets.

"Abnormal apathy" of the authorities is correct. Unfortunately, in North America generally, most provinces and states pin their faith on so-called protective-colored clothing. In Ontario recently a white hunting-suit didn't save the man. Quite often it doesn't. Yet the authorities still can't see beyond the ends of their protective-colored noses.

The whole thing calls for a royal commission. In the meantime B.C. could, as I suggested before, ban all hunting (except for bush users) for a year, charge every offender with culpable homicide, and institute tests à la Green.

All real hunters would agree with this. The others, the potential killers, would shout their heads off. That's the time to have the royal commission.

Don't Block the View

As a Victorian who has recently returned after studying painting in Europe, may I state what strikes me and others with regard to the projected civic centre on Cathedral Hill. The plan in the main seems admirable. But could we be sure we are giving adequate room to see the view and making the most of our beautiful sight?

Just over a year ago I saw York, Minister in Britain for the first time. I was astonished to find that this wonderful cathedral was hemmed in by large buildings. So Victoria could be serene and lovely with space for the tourist and tired businessman or housewife to stand and stare at the mountains and the lovely buildings clustered about but not crowding the cathedral.

Partial Court Victory Won by City Woman

A Victoria woman won a partial victory in the B.C. Court of Appeal this week.

Mrs. Dorothy Whitehead, 1517 Coldharbour Road, had appealed against the judgment of Mr. Justice Macfarlane last March 1 in which he dismissed her claim for damages against the city of Victoria and city fireman Edward Ball, 230 Robertson.

Mrs. Whitehead and her car were in collision with a city fire truck at Government and Bay, May 10, 1955. Mr. Justice Macfarlane had ruled against her claim because of her "lack of attention to what was going on around her."

Mr. Justice Davey in appeal court ruled that there had been contributory negligence on both sides, and that she was entitled to damages. The appeal court judges found that Mrs. Whitehead was 75 per cent to blame for the accident and Mr. Ball, driver of the fire truck, 25 per cent.

Gordon Swaffield has arrived in Vancouver to take up his appointment as assistant trade commissioner in the U.K. Trade Commission office there. He has been in the Ottawa office for the past two years and was previously with the Board of Trade in London.

Car Repairs Cost More

Insurance Boost Biggest in Decade

Increases in car insurance premiums in 1958 in British Columbia are expected to make a higher percentage overall jump than in any one of the past 10 years.

A spokesman for the insurance companies told The Daily Colonist last night that the new rates would not be known for some days, but considerable increases were inevitable.

HIGHER CLAIMS
While the accident ratio has not greatly worsened during the past 12 months, the cost of claims has spiralled to an alarming degree.

Fancy chrome work on automobiles, exaggerated fashions, and hundreds of new gadgets not only put up the price of the new car, but also mean that the bill for damages is increasingly higher.

Added to that are higher wages for mechanics, bigger medical and hospital bills. Courts are also said to be increasing their awards in compensation cases in order to meet the current higher costs of living.

ONLY GUESSWORK
The insurance spokesman declined to estimate what the increases would be. "It can only be guesswork until the rates for the various parts of the province have been worked out," he said.

One estimate for Victoria was an increase of 30 per cent.

Kidnapper Believed Still Around

SYCAMORE, B.C. (UP)—Law enforcement officials, under FBI direction, said yesterday they believed the man who kidnapped and probably killed seven-year-old Maria Ridulph Tuesday night is still in the Sycamore area.

They urged Sycamore residents to band once again into search parties and scour the west side of the city for clues.

The statement sparked rumors that police have finally come up with some tangible lead in the mystery. Until it was issued it appeared investigators knew little more than when a blond, curly-haired young man calling himself "Johnny" offered Maria a "piggy-back" ride Tuesday night and carried her off.

Donations from three more union locals have boosted Victoria Labor Council's drive to raise $10,000 for a senior citizens' housing project to a total of $2,113, secretary-treasurer A. W. Toone said this week.

Latest locals to contribute were painters, $200, barbers, $120, and typographers, $150.

Tourist Value Climbs

British Columbia's tourist industry hit an estimated $103,000,000 this year, Recreation Minister Earle C. Westwood said yesterday.

This is an increase of $13,000,000 in the value of the industry a year ago.

Mr. Westwood said that according to estimates based on 1956 figures of the Bureau of Statistics, U.S. visitors will have spent $48,000,000 by the end of the year, Canadians from other provinces are expected to contribute an additional $35,000,000 and British Columbians will spend $20,000,000 holidaying in their own province.

Sammy Seal Sighted

David Hancock is happier than he's been all week. He heard yesterday that his missing pet seal, "Sam" had been seen.

He's sure it was Sammy, because the seal was so friendly, and because it had a white mark on one eye, as did Sam from an early accident.

Sammy gets around, though. He went missing at Cordova Bay, and was seen Wednesday afternoon on Bentinck Island. L. C. Thomas, caretaker on Bentinck Island, and his wife and pet terrier saw the young seal at about 4 p.m. They were down by the shore when the seal came up to them, showing no fear and playing with the dog.

The seal sniffed at their hands as if for food, and followed them up almost to their house. The Thomases don't get any newspapers on the island, so were not aware that a pet seal was missing.

If they had, Sammy would probably be home now.

Guess Who This Is?

No, no, it's not Dave Beck. It's one of the screen's great comedians, now recovering from a slight stroke. And yesterday he said he'll never act again. He hates to watch re-runs of his old pictures on TV "because they're so cut up," especially since the death of his screen partner, Oliver Hardy. That's right, this is the latest picture of Stan Laurel. (AP Photofax.)

Nanaimo Parents Told:

Delinquency Act Pleas Ignored

NANAIMO — Parents, who responsible for revision, he said, criticized the Juvenile Delinquency Act at a panel discussion on child behavior, were justice without success over the past 10 years. Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts was moderator of the panel which attracted a record attendance at Woodlands Parent-Teacher Association.

Also taking part in the keen debate were Dr. Edna Signori of UBC; social welfare worker Donald Bingham; Nanaimo lawyer E. D. Strongtham; and members of the B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation.

Panel members were divided on the wisdom of the "Spare the rod and spoil the child" maxim.

An announcement will be made within a week on a new board of directors, he said. He will continue as president.

Terms of agreement laid down by a government inquiry board into the project have been accepted by the financial backers of the project and it is expected a formal agreement will be negotiated soon with the government.

The government inquiry report, released two weeks ago, criticized the Campbell River village commission for placing "pitfalls" before the development scheme.

Development Firm Incorporated Again

A re-incorporation of the Campbell River Development Corporation Ltd. was announced yesterday by president William S. Mullett.

The firm is now known as the Campbell River Development Corporation (1957) Ltd. It has been incorporated for 1,000,000 shares and will be ultimately increased to 3,500,000 shares.

All share transactions and records will be handled by the Royal Trust Company, Mr. Mullett said.

"OTHER PROJECTS"
Mr. Mullett also announced the corporation planned "several other large projects on northern Vancouver Island."

He said they would not necessarily be of the same nature as the Campbell River development.

The present aim of the firm is to create "20 acres of key business property" in the downtown Campbell River area by filling in part of the waterfront. It is estimated the completed development will cost more than $2,000,000, embracing a breakwater, a nine-acre harbor, marine services, a hotel and several retail stores.

New Library Pact Dec. 12 Vote Issue

All Victoria city voters will have a chance Dec. 12 to say if they want a royal commission to study Greater Victoria's library system.

Acclamation

Scurrah Returned As Mayor

M. Frank Hunter, city clerk and chief returning officer, held a fairly lonely vigil in city council chamber from noon to 2 p.m. yesterday, waiting for a mayoralty challenger or another council or school board candidate to show up.

But when 2 o'clock sounded from the bell tower, he gathered up his documents without a new name on them, and Mayor Scurrah was mayor for a second two-year term by acclamation.

Candidates listed for four city council seats were Aldermen M. H. Mooney, Geoffrey Edgewood, J. Donald Smith and Mrs. Lily Wilson, and Mrs. Sally Rogers and Capt. D. J. Proudfoot.

For two Greater Victoria school board seats, city candidates nominated were Kenneth Leeming and Alan H. Wilson, and William H. Williams.

All Greater Victoria municipalities will vote on the same day this year, Thursday, Dec. 12, but the polling hours in the city and the adjoining municipalities will differ.

ators will be able to vote on a new inter-municipal library agreement.

The new public library agreement would give Saanich, Oak Bay, and Victoria a share of the cost of operating and capital improvements.

The municipalities would continue to share the cost of the library, but on a new basis. At present Victoria and the municipalities share the cost according to the number of book loans to residents of each during the year.

The proposed new formula calls for a contribution of 50 cents per capita of population, and then a split of the remaining cost on the book-circulation basis.

Mayor Perry Scurrah has urged Victoria ratepayers to pass the library bylaw, because in view of the fact that the municipalities are paying their share of operating and capital costs, it is only fair they should have voting representation.

'Our Big Need Is Discipline In Education'

OTTAWA—A down-to-earth plea for an educational system which breeds qualities of discipline and intellectual honesty was made in the Senate yesterday by Sen. Thomas Crerar.

"Discipline is essential," he said. "If there was any glory or grandeur—as I believe there was—in the old Scottish system of education it arose from the importance it assigned to education."

Asked by Sen. William D. Fether what he meant by self-discipline, Sen. Crerar defined it as "self-control, and the recognition of the rights of others."

MADRID, Spain — Monarchist supporters of Don Juan and Carlist traditionalists recently held an important meeting which may result in Carlist support for Don Juan's claims to the Spanish throne.

Orator J. R. Sutherland, speaking at the presentation to Margaret of the university's honorary degree of doctor of music, added the honor was awarded in the full knowledge of her abilities.

Rival Factions Clash in UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. calls for new talks aimed at (CPI)—Two rival resolutions settling the Algerian question, on Algeria were submitted to and demands that the UN go on the United Nations Thursday record as recognizing that "the one backed by a group of seven principle of self-determination is applicable to the Algerian other by 17 Arab-Asian nations."

The proposals were presented to the UN political committee as it wound up eight days of debate on how to promote a settlement of the North African rebellion.

A resolution proposed by Spain, Italy, Peru, Argentina, Brazil, Cuba and the Dominican Republic would have the UN take action similar to that of the previous assembly.

VOICES CONCERN

It voices concern that no way has been found to end the rebellion, now in its third year, and expresses hope a "peaceful, democratic, and just solution" will be found through appropriate procedures in conformity with the principles of the UN charter.

Sawchuk Has Busy Night

Goalie Terry Sawchuk of Detroit had another of his hectic evenings at Boston last night, as he blocked 45 shots in a losing cause while his Red Wings were taking a 7-2 lacing in their National Hockey League game with

Boston Bruins. Here, Sawchuk leaps from his net to make a save on Don McKenney, but McKenney came back to score one goal and assist on two others to lead the rout. — (AP Photofax.)

Habs Pull Out Win Over Leafs; Bruins on Spree Against Wings

Montreal Canadiens blew a two-goal lead, then stormed from behind to score twice late in the third period and edge Toronto Maple Leafs, 4-3, in their tense National Hockey League duel before 13,875 fans at Montreal.

It was the most dramatic win of the season for the league-leading Habs, as Dickie Moore scored the winner, his second goal of the night, with only 20 seconds left in the game.

Montreal lineup last night and immediately made his presence felt. The Pocket Rocket failed to get a goal, but set up two as he collected his 31st and 32nd points of the season.

Richard's linemates, Moore and Marcel Bonin, each scored a pair of goals. Moore's winning effort came on Montreal's powerful odd-man play, and was set up by passes from Bernie Geoffrion and Jean Beliveau.

Bonin got his first goal in the opening period and Moore made it 2-0 in the second. Then the Leafs came back to pour in three straight goals, by Ron Stewart, Frank Mahovlich and Tod Sloan, to take over the lead.

However, Richard and Moore set up Bonin for the tying goal at 16:23 and Montreal got the winner after Jimmy Morrison was sent off for holding Richard.

Moore, a 29-goal man last year and always a high scorer against the Leafs, notched his 10th and 11th goals and brought his point total to 32. Bonin's goals were his third and fourth.

The game was a complete reversal of a 5-0 m-Wednesday night's contest in Toronto, when the Leafs and Canadiens, the two highest-scoring teams in the NHL, played to a scoreless tie.

At Boston, the Bruins ran wild against the Red Wings to come up with their greatest scoring effort in two seasons. A crowd of 8,584, smallest of the season in Boston, watched the Bruins sew up the game early with four unanswered goals in the first period. From then on, it was merely a question of how wide the margin was going to be.

SAWCHUK BUSY

Terry Sawchuk, who owns the worst goals-against mark in the NHL this season, had to come up with an amazing total of 45 stops, 31 of them in the last two periods, as he was peppered from all angles.

Bronco Horvath, playing with a sprained thumb, and Don McKenney led the Bruins with a goal and two assists each against the last-place Wings. Horvath's goal was his 12th of the season, and he now has 25 points. McKenney also has 12 goals and has drawn nine assists.

Doug Mohns opened the floodgates early in the game. Fleming Mackell, Leo Labine and Vic Stasiuk scored before the period ended. Horvath and McKenney each scored in the second period and Jack Caffery ended it at 13:32 of the final period.

Forbes Kennedy and Metro Prystay scored for the Red Wings.

Next NHL action will take place Saturday, when Detroit plays at Montreal, New York is at Toronto, and the Bruins host Chicago Black Hawks.

LA Move for the Best children, no matter what the future holds.

His immediate future is catching for the Los Angeles Dodgers. Officially 38, Campy won most valuable player awards in 1951-52-53 but the every-other-year charm didn't work last year when he was a .242 hitter with 13 homers and 63 runs-batted-in in 103 games.

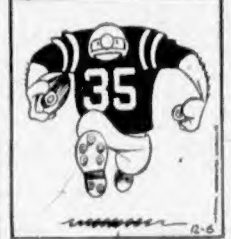

It was his poorest homer output since he became a regular in 1949, and a considerable drop from his '53 high of 41.

"That doesn't worry me," he said. "All I worry about is my hands. Lately, I've been getting hit with more foul tips than I ever did. Maybe I was overdue. Anyway, my hands feel great now and I know I can help the ball club in more ways than one."

Even when he isn't hitting, Campy is a tremendous aid to the pitchers—young and old—because he knows his job. An old hand, behind the plate, always is better than a young one.

Minor Leagues Declare War

Major League Investigation Asked by Baseball Officials

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Representatives of baseball's minor leagues Thursday asked the United States Congress to reopen its investigation of the major leagues if the big clubs carry on their plan to telecast Sunday games into minor league territory.

A few hours later, receiving no reply from the major leagues, a minor league committee sent a telegram to Representative Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) asking him to have his House of Representatives' judicial committee take another look at baseball.

A House subcommittee probe of baseball and other professional sports last June.

The minors' action marked the first time that a group within organized baseball has appealed to Congress for relief from aggression within its own ranks.

LEADS ACTION
International League president Frank Shugrue, the originator of the threat, was bitterly outspoken of the major leagues.

"I told them (the majors) that if we were forced to play on their turf, we would play on their terms," Shugrue said. "We would have to give away some of our rights, but we would not give away our identity."

Shugrue's demand for a report that the majors would agree to the Sunday TV plan, the National League and American League have refused to do so.

Shugrue said he would not want their attention drawn to the minor leagues and would not want them to be known as "the minor leagues." He said he would not want them to be known as "the minor leagues."

Tripucka, Etcheverry to Match Passing Arms in All-Star Grid

Both On and Off the Ice Colorful Paille is Frugal

NEW YORK (AP)—Model Paille of the New York Rangers' minor league is a mighty frugal French Canadian.

He hates to give away goods as any rival National Hockey League player will tell you and is equally thrifty off the ice.

When Paille reported to the Rangers last month from Providence of the American Hockey League along with his own uniform pants, they were the only ones.

Paille's frugality was well known when he joined the team in 1956. He was known for wearing the same pants for years.

Canada Agrees in Principle To '58 Puck Tour of Russia

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian hockey team may make an expedition to Russia next winter, a Russian hockey official said Thursday.

The Soviet Ice Hockey and Canadian teams on success five years.

"We expect a Canadian team to tour in Russia next year," he said.

Speaking of the Soviets, Kharitonov said he was pleased with the arrangements, transportation and meals so were the players.

The team in seven games so far has won four straight after dropping two and tying one.

Had the Soviets picked up any new hockey techniques or tricks while playing in Canada?

"There is nothing new in hockey theory," Kharitonov said. "But the experience was good."

Had the Soviets found the opposition tough?

"Here all games were about to alternate tours by Russian the same tough."

He replied that discussions have been held with the CCHA. "Here all games were about to alternate tours by Russian the same tough."

Irish-Born Ruane May Prompt Award For Rookie Jockey

NEW YORK (AP)—The Irish-born jockey has no "rookie-of-the-year" award that could be handed to such a deserving little apprentice as Irish John Ruane for his 1957 racing achievements.

Perhaps his 114 winners at Jamaica, Belmont and Saratoga, and at least 20 others at other tracks, will inspire the Thoroughbred Racing Association to establish a "rookie" award.

Mr. Ruane, who was born in Ireland, came to America in 1954 and settled in suburban Westchester. And he was soon making a name for himself as a jockey, winning 12 races in 1954, 13 in 1955, 14 in 1956 and 114 in 1957.

At 2, six-foot-four, two-hundred-pound Ruane has captured American jockey fans more completely than any apprentice since the introduction of the "rookie" award in 1954. He has won 114 races, including 10 stakes races, and has a record of 114 wins in 1957.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Does compulsory attendance at public schools infringe religious freedom?

The Supreme Court of Canada may shortly be asked to rule on this question as it affects school at New Denver because his parents refuse to send him to a public school. About 100 Protestant children are held

This court said religious beliefs don't give anyone the right to keep children out of school.

During argument on the case,

Lawyer Pat Hogan said here Thursday an appeal to the Supreme Court in Ottawa is "very likely."

When Hogan and his law partner inspected Hall's car this year, the estimated value was $10,000. The value of the car this year was $12,000.

viatical statutes, the Public Health Act, the Education of All Classes of Schools Act and the Protection of the Public Health Act, and a number of other Acts in making at least one of them another compulsory infringement on religious freedom. . . . I absolutely reject the suggestion that any of these Acts are in violation of the Charter.

In delivering the decision Mr. Justice Sidney Smith said he could not see that any religious element was involved in the dispute.

It seems to me he said

Battered body of Mrs. Ellen Robertson, who came to Canada to visit her son, three weeks ago, was found in front of her home, 1144 of East Erie, and a mother went for a walk and never returned.

South Africa's reserves of uranium oxide are believed to be one of the world's largest.

Smoking Ships Next Target

VANCOUVER (CP) — City council decided Thursday to ask the provincial legislature for power to crack down on smoke-belching ships in Vancouver harbor.

Council decided to ask to have necessary changes written into the city charter so it can continue its campaign against smoke and dust. Vancouver already has one of the lowest dust pollution records in North America.

At present, the city and national harbors board say they do not have the right to prosecute ships for breaking anti-smoke by-laws. Under the proposed charter amendment, the city could proceed against either the ship or its captain in the event of violations.

NEW YORK (UP)—Le jazz hot is scheduled to meet up with the television cold

TV, a medium that has turned a fairly frigid shoulder to jazz in the past, will provide a one-hour showcase for such diverse practitioners of the craft as Billie Holiday, Count Basie, Gerry Mulligan, Red Allen, Jimmy Giuffrè, Coleman Hawkins and Lester Young.

The event, scheduled for exhibition Sunday on CBS-TV's "The Seven Lively Arts" stems from the brain of Robert Herridge, jazz buff, guitarist and producer of the show.

"The show will probably be available to Victoria viewers late this month."

"There have been some attempts on TV to work with jazz," said Herridge today.

Leonard Bernstein, for example, did a good job on "Omni-bus."

"But we want to take an approach different from any other attempted on TV. We want to offer jazz for itself, as an experience in sound. We want to steer clear of the gimmicks and camera techniques that have burdened its presentation in the past."

For this Sunday's session, Herridge, who launched CBS-TV experimental "Camera Three" back in 1953, will sweep his set clear of props.

"We're going to give these guys a bare stage," he explained. "There'll be nothing to distract from the music. In place of a tape recording, we'll make use of some of the musicians in which they talk about jazz and how they came to it. We'll work mostly with the blues, which we all feel is a root form of jazz."

Herridge agrees that his chief problem will be the meshing of jazz, an art that works through the ear with TV, a medium that works primarily through the eye.

Chess Whiz Wins Games AND Friends

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Abe Yanofsky, the affable young lawyer from Winnipeg, has been doing well against some of the world's greatest chess moves Saturday night, the opening of the tourney, which continues through Dec. 13.

And in a game which lasted 10 hours Sunday afternoon and a tie with Larry Evans of the United States after a marathon 85-move stint.

Yanofsky had stepped away from the board for a minute when Evans suddenly wrote "draw" on his scorecard and began rearranging the pieces.

"Yanofsky won't agree, you've forfeited the game," declared Isaac Kashdan, tournament director.

But Yanofsky returned, smiled and accepted the draw instead of claiming a technical win.

the "largest passenger aircraft in the world." It is powered by four prop-jet engines twice as powerful as those of similar craft outside Russia. The plane has two elevators, a telephone system and a restaurant for 48 persons. (C.P.)

This Is the Paris ...

Murders in the Hundreds

By ROBERT MUSEL

PARIS (UPI) — There is a Paris no one sings about, the Paris of the stiletto, the gun, the garrote.

It is a Paris the tourist rarely sees, the Paris of the underworld, the Paris of the underworld.

The perfumed perimeter of the Arc de Triomphe.

Victims goggle at the noses of the famous restaurants, stand awed before the slowly circling perfection of Venus de Milo in the Louvre.

Behind this allure and enchantment there is another Paris, the shabby working class districts of rabbit warrens with the courtesy name of "hotel."

CAIGNE WAS NOTHING

And here there is violent death on a scale never approached in a great city in peacetime. Compared to what has been happening because of Algeria in the "Red belt" in whom live in or near Paris. They crowd shabby hotels, frequent Moslem cafes.

They can enter France at will since Algeria is a part of the French nation. Many of them are hardworking and peace-loving.

The Algerian rebel army, hard pressed for money, sends collectors to France to "solicit" funds. Some of the killed and wounded are shopkeepers or workers who refused to pay.

Some are members of the rival independence organizations, the extremist National Liberation Front and the more moderate Algerian National Movement. Their feud is violent.

And there is a third deadly Algerians in France, most of factor-racketeers who pretend to be from the independence groups and collect at gunpoint the other three were strictly for themselves.

Algerians do not talk to police. Recently four North Africans were picked up for questioning while driving a car. Greece, Bulgaria, Russia, Iran

Trial in Japan?

Army specialist Gregory J. Kupski of Detroit may be turned over to Japan for trial.

Kupski is accused of the murder of Mrs. Kazuo Kakawa, Wescott, 25, Japanese wife of a navy petty officer, after a drinking party in Yokohama Nov. 17, last. United States Army does not claim jurisdiction because although the woman was married to an American she was not a dependent in a strict sense of definition, since her husband was an aviation mechanic.

Robert Wescott of Vancouver, B.C., had abandoned her. Japan has not signified desire to conduct Kupski's trial. (CPC)

Service to Washington's Olympic Peninsula and to intermediate points on the route to the East also was halted.

Refineries Weaken

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market was regular. At the close, industrials were higher on index but golds and western oils were narrowly easier. Refining oils, pipelines, utilities and banks were lower. Among industrials but some of the stocks in these groups improved towards the close. Molylbdenum Toronto Iron Works and Minnesota and Ontario Paper were winners of between one and two points but all had small volumes. Western oils and senior base metals were quiet.

Easier Money Rumored

NEW YORK (UP) — Stocks advanced with the help of easier money rumors. Tobacco and shipbuilding stocks paced the upswing, although gains of a point or more were numerous in the main list. Glass stocks ran into some selling. The market was helped along by rumors in Wall Street that the federal reserve board may ease the money market another notch. Zenith turned weak near the close and dropped more than 2 points.

Valley Tops Trade

VANCOUVER — More than half the day's volume of sales was in Valley Exploration of which 101,000 shares changed hands at 3 cents. Trojan was also active, losing three cents at 21 cents. Bethlehem Copper made a small gain on the day at 92 cents after trading up to 97 cents.

London Stock Prices

LONDON (Reuters) — The stock market had a satisfactory morning although business remained small. Gilt-edged securities improved on small investment buying. Rate Boost Jolts Bonds

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

The surging bond market met with a moderate setback yesterday following the news that the Bank of Canada rediscunt rate had gone up for the second week in succession.

The rate advanced to 3.92 per cent from 3.85 per cent the previous week, and from 3.77 per cent on Nov. 21. It remains, however, 13 per cent lower than the 4.05 per cent ruling on Nov. 7, just before the U.S. Federal Reserve Bank broke its rate from 3½ per cent to 3 per cent.

As a result of the increase, Canada bonds, provincials and some corporations, dipped up to half a point in listless trading yesterday. The rate advanced to 3.92 per cent from 3.85 per cent the previous week, and from 3.77 per cent on Nov. 21. It remains, however, 13 per cent lower than the 4.05 per cent ruling on Nov. 7, just before the U.S. Federal Reserve Bank broke its rate from 3½ per cent to 3 per cent.

It is only because the capital inflow has in the past exceeded the trade deficit that the Canadian dollar has been able to hold its premium position.

New Income Tax Forms May Show Wrong Rates

OTTAWA (CP) — Some 15,000,000 income tax forms with rates unchanged from last year have been printed and shipped across the country — but this doesn't mean the tax can't be cut this year.

A revenue department official said today that if the tax is cut further, instructions will be sent out to go with the forms. If a straight percentage cut is made taxpayers will be advised but not early in the new year.

through newspapers to figure out their tax on the present forms and then, deduct the cut. The official said the forms were sent out as a matter of routine and since the department had not been advised of any change they were set on the basis of last year's tax rate.

The department tried to get the forms into post offices before the Christmas rush so they would be on hand for district taxpayers will be advised but not early in the new year.
